

Presents

JAZZ LINES PUBLICATIONS

THREE SECONDS

ARRANGED BY OLIVER NELSON

PREPARED FOR PUBLICATION BY DYLAN CANTERBURY, ROB DUBOFF, AND JEFFREY SULTANOF

FULL SCORE

JLP-7941

MUSIC BY OLIVER NELSON

COPYRIGHT © 1960 (RENEWED) BY NOSLEN MUSIC CO., LLC (BMI)
INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT SECURED ALL RIGHTS RESERVED USED BY PERMISSION
LOGOS, GRAPHICS, AND LAYOUT COPYRIGHT © 2023 THE JAZZ LINES FOUNDATION INC.

THIS ARRANGEMENT HAS BEEN PUBLISHED WITH THE AUTHORIZATION OF THE ESTATE OF OLIVER NELSON.

PUBLISHED BY THE JAZZ LINES FOUNDATION INC., A NOT-FOR-PROFIT JAZZ RESEARCH ORGANIZATION DEDICATED TO PRESERVING AND PROMOTING AMERICA'S MUSICAL HERITAGE.

THE JAZZ LINES FOUNDATION INC.

PO Box 1236

SARATOGA SPRINGS NY 12866 USA

OLIVER NELSON SERIES

THREE SECONDS (1975)

Oliver Nelson Biography:

Oliver Edward Nelson was born on June 4, 1932 in St. Louis, into a musical family, as is often the case with jazz greats. His brother was a saxophonist who played with Cootie Williams and his sister was a singing pianist as well. He began to learn piano as a child, moving on to saxophone a few years later, and eventually played in what were then called “territory bands” in the St. Louis area. Johnny Hodges was his idol and he worked hard at becoming proficient at the alto saxophone before joining Louis Jordan’s big band as an altoist and arranger as the 1950s began. During the bulk of the decade he served in the Marines in the Far East and then returned to St. Louis to study music. It was during these years that he was exposed to many kinds of music, apparently being especially moved by the Tokyo Philharmonic, and his endlessly curious and fertile mind was stimulated to begin creating what would be some of the greatest music in jazz history.

The next few years were extremely productive, as Nelson spent a lot of time in New York City, working as the house arranger at the legendary Apollo Theater, playing with Erskine Hawkins, Wild Bill Davis, Louie Bellson, Quincy Jones, and briefly with Duke Ellington and Count Basie, and leading several small group sessions for Prestige, which featured greats such as Kenny Dorham, Eric Dolphy, Roy Haynes, and others. His growing mastery of writing and arranging led to what was to become his crowning achievement, 1961’s The Blues and the Abstract Truth.

When one listens to this timeless, phenomenal album, the beauty of Stolen Moments, the first and most famous track, instantly captivates, and starts the listener on a journey that is rarely equaled in the canon of jazz. The style and harmonies used on this record became Nelson’s trademarks, combining rare originality and developing brilliance. As amazing as the compositions and orchestrations are, one is also enthralled by the lineup that seemingly only Oliver Nelson could assemble: Eric Dolphy, Freddie Hubbard, Bill Evans, Paul Chambers, and Roy Haynes, with George Barrow on baritone. A true all-star lineup; incredible virtuosity and diversity of styles, and with everyone in their prime. Building a lineup like this truly speaks to Oliver Nelson’s ambition and dedication to creating truly unique and original sounds. Jazz Lines Publications is extraordinarily proud to publish this record’s arrangements in their entirety, engraved from the original arrangements hand-written by Oliver Nelson.

Later in 1961 he recorded Afro-American Sketches, his first full recording of original big band material, exploring racial and political themes which would always mean a great deal to him. In 1967 he recorded the ambitious musical tribute to John F. Kennedy: The Kennedy Dream, a big band recording devoted to J.F.K. and using excerpts of his speeches.

During the 1960s he continued to create ambitious soundscapes as a leader as well as for others in the jazz world, as his talents had become incredibly in demand. He arranged for ‘Cannonball’ Adderley, Sonny Rollins, Eddie ‘Lockjaw’ Davis, Johnny Hodges, Buddy Rich, Stanley Turrentine, Irene Reid, Gene Ammons, and others. Jazz Lines Publications has published some of his works that were done for Wes Montgomery as well as six of the songs he arranged for Thelonious Monk’s big band album of 1968, which remain of singular importance as big band versions of some of Monk’s most beloved compositions. Jazz Lines Publications also plans to publish the arrangements of from Peter and the Wolf as recorded by Jimmy Smith.

Nelson moved to Los Angeles in the mid-1960s, aspiring to break into the lucrative world of movie and TV scoring. He continued to perform and write in both the small group and big band formats, and also worked with such mainstream stars as Nancy Wilson, James Brown, the Temptations, and Diana Ross. His film and television work became more and more time-consuming, as his creativity, speed, and capacity for work were legendary. He is perhaps best-known in this idiom for his creation of the hugely well-known theme from the Six Million Dollar Man, but he worked on Columbo, Ironside, and many other projects as well, and also arranged Gato Barbieri’s music for the film Last Tango in Paris.

Sadly, the pace and volume of his work during this period most likely contributed to the decline of his health, and in one of jazz's greatest tragedies, he passed away suddenly in late October 1975 at the very young age of 43. While the press reports claimed it was a heart attack, Kenny Berger cites Oliver Nelson, Jr. as claiming it was actually pancreatitis. He also left a great educational legacy, which is embodied by his landmark book Patterns for Improvisation. It is an exhaustive collection of improvisational jazz patterns in various meters and feels with his comments and suggestions, and it is a very popular book because it helps spell out some of the basic building blocks of the 'jazz language.'

Oliver Nelson was a musician whose work was beloved by jazz fans and also by his peers and the general public. So many of the era's greatest musicians clamored for his arranging skills. Hollywood and television treasured his amazing compositional and arranging abilities on multiple levels - not only could he create memorable scores and soundtracks, but he could do it in the grueling time frame required by that genre. His compositions were always unique, and often his style is instantly recognizable. He was grounded in the blues, but heavily influenced by classical music as well. He used whatever instruments and doubles that were necessary to bring to life the complex orchestrations he heard in his head; it has been said that his writing was very demanding on musicians, using various clarinets and flutes, oboe, English horn-whatever it took to carry out his complex visions.

He composed for small ensemble and big band; he wrote symphonic works and authored a seminal jazz text; he wrote for film and television and worked with some of the biggest stars in the American musical pantheon. He did it all, and he did it all before he was even 44 years old. This was a true renaissance man of music, and one the world sadly misses, but one who left an incredibly rich, broad, and diverse catalog behind, which contains something for everyone. His music is majestic, beautiful, and powerful; it moves, enlightens, and educates; and perhaps most telling of all, it challenges not only the listener and the student, but also some of the greatest musicians in the world as well. Oliver Nelson is a giant figure in American music, and Jazz Lines Publications is proud to have the honor of publishing some of his most important creations.

The Music:

Originally performed on his 1960 album Screamin' the Blues, Oliver Nelson would record an updated version of Three Seconds on his 1975 album Stolen Moments. This arrangement is based on the latter, which features an expanded instrumentation, background figures, and a shout chorus not present on the earlier version.

Notes to the Conductor:

The melody is, as the title implies, based around three notes stacked on top of each other in major seconds. Between the subtly syncopated rhythm, the bass ostinato, and the overall spaced-out feel, the performance lends itself to a naturally ominous feel. The second time through the melody sees a simple counterline added in to slightly increase the complexity.

A series of open solos eventually leads into a simple shout chorus that sees the ensemble voicings spread out a bit more. The baritone sax is effectively a member of the rhythm section during this part, and should be performed accordingly. Once the shout chorus is done, the main melody returns and is played the same as it was at the beginning, ending on a soft, but tension filled, final chord.

This publication was based on Oliver Nelson's original pencil score and the set of parts used during the 1975 recording session - this is not a transcription.

Acknowledgements:

Jazz Lines Publications is proud to continue its relationship with Oliver Nelson, Jr. in bringing the work of his father to print for performance and study.

Dylan Canterbury and Doug DuBoff
- February 2023

Arranger Background For Trp Solo TITLE Three Seconds Page (1)

① B Alto Solo

Trp: Ami 9, Emi 9, Ami 9, Emi 9, Dmi 9, Bmi 9, Ami 9, Emi 9

2nd Alto: Transpose Chords From Bass For Alto Key

1st Tenor

Bari

Baritone

1

2

3

4

Trumpets: Background For Trumpet Solo
 & Alto Solo

1

2

3

4

Trombones

Guitar: B

Piano

Bass: Gmi 9, Dmi 9, Gmi 9, Dmi 9, Cmi 9, Ami 9, Gmi 9, Dmi 9

Drums: ① ② ③ ④ ⑤ ⑥ ⑦ ⑧

Above is the first page of Oliver Nelson's pencil score for Three Seconds recorded in 1975.

Three Seconds

Piano

Oliver Nelson

(Solo)

Pedal

Handwritten musical notation for the first system of 'Three Seconds'. It consists of two staves (treble and bass clef) with notes, rests, and a 'Pedal' marking. The music is in 4/4 time and features a melodic line in the treble and a supporting bass line.

Handwritten musical notation for the second system of 'Three Seconds', continuing the melodic and bass lines from the first system.

Handwritten musical notation for the third system of 'Three Seconds', continuing the melodic and bass lines.

Handwritten chord notation for the first line of the fourth system:

Gmi⁹ Dmi⁹ Gmi⁹ Dmi⁹ Cmi⁹ Ami⁹

Handwritten chord notation for the second line of the fourth system:

Gmi⁹ Dmi⁹ Dmi⁹ G13 Cmi⁹ F13 Gmi⁹ Dmi⁹

To the left is the original piano part for Three Seconds that was used for the 1975 recording session.

OLIVER E. NELSON
N. 1195
LOCAL 802
REGISTERED 1960 No.

THREE SECONDS

SCORE

MUSIC BY OLIVER NELSON

ARRANGED BY OLIVER NELSON

PREPARED FOR PUBLICATION BY DYLAN CANTERBURY, ROB DUBOFF, AND JEFFREY SULTANOF

MEDIUM SWING ♩ = 120

①

The musical score is arranged for a jazz ensemble. It begins with a first ending bracket labeled '①' over the first six measures. The instrumentation includes Soprano Sax, Alto Sax, Tenor Sax, Baritone Sax, Trumpet, Guitar (Optional), Piano, Bass, and Drums. The Alto Sax, Tenor Sax, and Trumpet parts feature melodic lines with dynamics marked mp. The Bass part features a walking line with dynamics marked mp. The Drums part features a brush pattern with dynamics marked mp and a count of '(4)' in the fourth measure. The piece concludes in the sixth measure.

Musical score for 'Three Seconds' page 2, measures 7-12. The score includes staves for S. Sax, A. Sax, T. Sax, B. Sax, Tpt., Gtr., Pno., B.S., and Dr. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 4/4. The score features various musical notations including notes, rests, and dynamics such as mp. The drum part is indicated by a double bar line and diagonal slashes, with measure numbers (8) and (12) marked.

7

8

9

10

11

12